

ANNA ROWE

For over 15 years Anna has committed herself to the improvement of people's lives. Anna partners with Kristin Souers and Pete Hall, co-authors of Fostering Resilient Learners: Strategies for Creating a Trauma-Sensitive Classroom (ASCD, 2016), in providing professional development and consultation support to teachers, education staff, counselors, caregiving organizations, and families across the country. . In her current role with Washington State University's Child and Family Research Unit, Anna now provides consultation, professional development, and training services to school staff and districts. Early in her teaching career she was committed to letting every student know that they mattered and that were a learner. She transitioned to the field of social work and mental health with her master's degree working with some of the most vulnerable in our society involved with child welfare. She brought her knowledge to the field of adoption as a caseworker and educator. Through her past and current professional experience combined with personal life experiences she has been able to develop a widespread knowledge base regarding ACEs, complex trauma, attachment, school systems, and trauma-informed care.
